

Managing Household Hazardous Waste

When buying household products:

- Read labels
- Select the least hazardous product
- Buy only what you need if the product is not safe to store
- Use products with pumps, not aerosols
- Select water-based products
- Look for products with the fewest warnings and cautions. A warning that advises washing hands after using a product probably indicates that is potentially less harmful than one that warns users to wear goggles before using.

Learn more about managing household hazardous waste at <http://www.beaverlakesmart.org/education/hazardous-household-waste/>

